WHY IT WORKS

I must admit that when I first looked over our Twelve Traditions hanging on the wall, I thought they were a dumb, boring business charter. I was so smart that I knew they had nothing to do with me, and with that information, I ignored them for as long as I could. That was until the day my sponsor, wise woman that she was, suggested that I go through the Traditions with her just as we had the Steps. It seemed like a corny idea at the time, but she was my sponsor and I did not know you could tell your sponsor no. (I still don't recommend that).

One by one we read them together, studying page after page, looking for the spiritual principles and the practical applications.

Though at the time I did not understand the significance they would have in my life or how much wisdom was within the words on the page, I know today that they are "why it works" and they are also, when practiced in my own life, the glue that allows unity in my relationships with others inside and outside the rooms of AA.

My sponsor taught me to take each Tradition and find how it applied to me personally. When I felt stuck and could not see the spiritual significance or application, she encouraged me to dig deeper. She shared her own experience about what the Traditions had brought to her own life. When I struggled with finances and debt, and with my husband wanting to set a budget, she shared with me the freedom I would experience by being self-supporting through my own contributions.

When I wanted to complain about my husband or mother-in-law one more time, she shared with me that having no opinion on outside issues might save me from some resentments.

She said that the common welfare of my family should come first. She said I should stick to my own side of the street and be self-governing, and in this autonomy I would have peace of mind. She said that everyone, including myself, had the right to be wrong.

And she taught me that keeping my mouth shut and not playing the big shot was a great way to practice anonymity, for it is only by staying right-sized with humility that I can practice the spiritual principles I learned before I let my personality run the show.

SRI OFFICE UPDATE

OFFICE REPORT

It's that time of year when the snowbirds leave town for better climates and that means SRI is left with a few vacancies on the Hot Line. Not only do we need to replace a few phone volunteers, but we'd also like to build up our telephone volunteer database. Please ask the members of your groups to enlist for this service.

In case you don't know, here's how it works. Volunteers work one shift a week, the shift is 3 hours long. We have shifts from 9a-12p, 12p-3p, 3p-6p Monday through Friday. Sometimes it's busy, sometimes it's not. Feel free to bring a newspaper or other reading material. Volunteers work in teams of two and help each other find meeting and other information for the callers. This work is done at the office using our phones & computers. If you don't use a computer that's not an issue, you can use the meeting list and other reference material in the office.

We are also looking for volunteers to help in the bookstore. If you're interested please give a call or stop by the office to volunteer. Requirements are to be cordial, helpful, and have worked all 12 steps. At least one year of continuous sobriety is suggested.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

You can now purchase the Big Book (4th Edition) and the 12 & 12 eBooks on line at www.aa.org and FYI we have the current issue of the Grapevine magazine available for sale. We also have an assortment of new Grapevine books. The next Valley Wide Meeting list will be available for sale on the 15th of May. It will have a white cover.

We are collecting photos of meeting halls to frame & put on the walls of Central Office. Please email photos of your meeting halls. info@sriphoenix.org.

SRI will be hosting a 12th step orientation/workshop on the 4th Saturday of every month. The next workshop will be held on 4/28, from 1 pm - 2 pm. Come & learn how to do a 12th step call. Both TAS and the office phone volunteer positions will be addressed briefly. This is a great opportunity to learn about this service work. There will be a Q&A during the meeting. If you think you might want to answer the phones or volunteer to put your name on the 12th step list, stop by and learn something new.

Just a reminder; the SRI Business meeting is now being held at the SRI office. The next meeting is on May 8, at 7pm. Our new address is: 3215 E. Thunderbird Phoenix, AZ 85032

Please NO SMOKING in front of the Building.

Cash, checks, Visa & MasterCard are accepted at SRI Central Office.

HELPLINE VOLUNTEERS

Are you interested in doing service? SRI is looking for volunteers to answer the phones during the day. Regular, once a week shifts are 3 hours long and start at 9Am, 12PM & 3PM.

We're also seeking volunteers to fill in on short notice. Please contact the SRI office if you are available to provide this service. Remember that Volunteers must have at least one-year continuous sobriety and have worked the 12 steps.

SRI is continuing to hold a "Grapevine Drive". In an effort to get the word out, the PI/CPC committee will put these magazines in various locations in the Valley. You can bring your old copies of the Grapevine to the Central Office.

STEP FIVE

Opening Doors

Admitted to God, to ourselves, and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs.

I was always in a hurry as an active alcoholic. I felt so rotten about myself in particular and life in general that any time a situation held pleasure, I wanted it quickly. The need for quick relief was so great I never cared what I had to do to get it, or whom I hurt in the process.

When I came into Alcoholics Anonymous, I looked at the Twelve Steps and calculated I could go through them one a week. It would only be a matter of time before these AA people began looking up to me.

The list of Steps didn't seem too difficult. I wouldn't have been in AA if I wasn't an alcoholic, but this powerlessness business was just for the real bad cases. As far as my life being unmanageable, that was because of the sick women who were attracted to me. They took advantage of my good nature and kindness.

Steps Two and Three went the same way. Then I reached Step Four. Making a fearless and searching moral inventory of myself was asking a bit much. I was okay. What I wanted to do was finish the program so I could help these other people. I decided to go on to the Fifth Step. Then I read it and figured I'd better get out of the program before someone talked me into making a confession. There was just no way I could bring myself to tell anyone the exact nature of my wrongs. If I told anyone about the awful things I'd done when drinking, I just knew they'd tell everybody. I could see the banner of my life story hanging across Main Street.

During all this figuring and manipulating, I was able to hear what people were saying about sponsors. I decided a sponsor might be the answer to my dilemma. I picked a man who was twelve years sober and talked about love and forgiveness. He would understand and help me with the Steps.

I remember giving him my first Fourth Step. I knew that in order to make him understand how serious I was, I had to tell him some secrets about my life. I proudly handed him one paragraph of wrongs. He looked at it and asked if this had been done to the best of my ability. I thought I had him snowed. Looking back I realize how patient he was. In fact, he knew then that I was going to get drunk again. But instead of judging me, he just kept saying, "Do the first Nine Steps to the best of your ability and there's a good chance you'll stay sober."

When I came back in from a drunk, a little more humble than before, my sponsor asked me if I knew why I'd relapsed. I gave a million excuses; he gave two: "First, you're a drunk, and second, you didn't do the first Nine Steps to the best of your ability." We started back on Step One, and I became more willing. He told me to read the Big Book again and apply it to my life. He told me that the more I read it, the more God would reveal what was truth and what was not.

Although I was more sincere at working the Steps, there were a lot of things I wasn't willing to accept. It was suggested that I stay away from relationships for a year, and not make any major decisions. But I wasn't about to be a puppet for anyone, and besides I'd been married five times--I figured I was an authority on relationships. At one time, I had three women in my life at the same time.

Luckily, all of these ladies are still sober, though I'm serving a twelve-year sentence as a result of my last drunk. Living with my selfishness, self-centeredness, jealousy, and anger must have been a nightmare for all of them. It was for me.

Finally, I went a year without a relationship and depended on the program during times of fear and loneliness. I did two more Fifth Steps before I was able to do one that was truly to the best of my ability. As I think about the process I went through, I realize that each of those Fifth Step experiences was needed. Each time I peeled off another layer of garbage, the more wreckage I got rid of. I gave a little and waited to see what I got back. Eventually I gave it all, holding nothing back.

I heard people share in meetings, and some of their stories reminded me of myself. It took time to realize just how much I was like them. I found out that most people in AA had already been where I'd been and experienced some of the same terror and frustration in their own lives. I never thought that someone could hear the things I'd done and still like me, but I was wrong. I didn't understand the relief that comes when we find that special person to share with. I didn't know he would look at me and say, "I've done that too."

I didn't understand the kind of unconditional love this program offers. I didn't understand words like trust, forgiveness, understanding. I'm not perfect. I've made mistakes I'm not proud of--but I'm okay. Feeling okay--not completely joyous, happy, or free but simply okay is the most wonderful experience I've ever had.

The Fifth Step taught me to forgive myself so I could forgive others. It taught me that unless I have something, I can't give it away. The kind of love and joy that comes from this soul-cleansing process can only come from one place--one source. The relationship I build with myself must first come from a God of my understanding. I was brought to the point where I could face my Creator and ask his forgiveness. When I had truly done that, I was able to forgive myself and make the confession I'd thought impossible.

I've started back through the Steps again. Being in prison makes it a little harder because the kind of sobriety that comes with time doesn't exist here. My sponsor is four hours away and I'm allowed only ten minutes per call. But I write as often as I can and, soon, I should be moving to a camp nearer my home, so my sponsor can work with me a little better. I am my own best friend today and have many friends I'm starting to build truly loving relationships with. Had I never taken a completely honest Fifth Step, I'd still be living in the same pain that haunted me for years. Trusting God has opened a lot of doors for me, and with him I've been able to walk through them.

TRADITION FIVE

...Having One Primary Purpose

IN the Twelve Steps of our Recovery Program, the words Power, God and pronoun Him is used nine times, and in the Twelve Traditions there is a constant trend, calling attention to the Deity in phrases such as "A loving God," "Spiritual entity," "Spiritual Significance," "Spirit of service," "He Who presides over us all" etc, but in spite of the emphasis placed on this many good AA members, including many chairmen--completely ignore the Spiritual aspect of the program, once the meeting is under way.

The Fifth Tradition reads as follows:

"Each Alcoholics Anonymous Group ought to be a Spiritual entity having one primary purpose--that of carrying its message to the alcoholic who still suffers."

What message do we have to carry to the sick alcoholic? Surely we do not counsel the newcomer by saying come up to the meeting and meet the bunch, or come over to the club and have a cup of coffee, and keep on coming and you will stay sober, without imparting information as to what makes the Program "tick," and that is of course the Spiritual part of the Program.

This voluntary lack of recognition seems foolish and harmful. All groups are approached by a smattering of sceptics and so-called agnostics, and while I have heard it said that people may be scared away from AA by being frank about the Spiritual aspect, I have my first one to see.

The importance of meetings and group therapy cannot be overemphasized, it has manifold advantages and benefits, but these alone will not help us form a new pattern of life, so we can stay sober and like it. Without inward sense and consciousness and an open acknowledgement of God, or a Power greater than ourselves, our attempts to attain and maintain sobriety will eventually fail and the sooner this admission is made the better.

The manner in which the subject is approached is, of course, important. To approach the subject from the orthodox religious aspect is sometimes ill-advised but not always. To define Spirit as a living entity composed of nothing, is admittedly also a bit too thin to chew. But to say that life has a spiritual aspect apart from purely physical manifestations, that there are powers that control not only our lives but the entire universe, are obvious facts on which all are agreed.

The benefits of AA are derived from meeting people who understand our disease and extend genuine sympathy, who have a sincere interest in us and a tolerance for us we never knew before. This tolerance and fellow feeling develops into mutual understanding, overcomes our sales resistance and we are willing to cooperate. But this is not enough. We must further fortify ourselves by the development of our Spiritual life so we can maintain this new pattern of life when group therapy is not available.
